By JI MASTROTHMAN
AP Aerospace Writer
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Eight satellites, including seven to speed secret military messages between Washington, Saigon and other strategic points, rode a mighty Titan 3 rocket today toward lofty outposts in space.

The 12-story-tall Titan—most powerful booster in the Defense Department arsenal—blasted off on its fourth test flight at 9 a.m. EST.

Six hours later, the satellites were scheduled to zip into random circular orbits 21,000 miles above the equator, forming a jam-proof communications network in the skies.

Five U.S. Army ground terminals stood ready around the world to relay military test traffic through the orbiting vehicles.

The seven communications satellites—each capable of linking ground stations up to 10,350 miles apart—were built to carry messages between Washington and Viet Nam. Land lines and undersea cables are vulnerable to sabotage and natural interruption.

Flimsy Screen Over Laos Has Cracked

By ANTOINE YARED
VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The flimsy screen that covered the Laotian scene, giving it an apparent internal political and military stability, has cracked recently.

Although on a far smaller scale, there is some similarity with events in neighboring South Viet Nam. Both countries are threatened by Communist aggression.

Laotian generals seem to concentrate more on strengthening their own personal interests than on containing the Communist Pathet Lao.

The United States is deeply committed and faces the dilemma of perpetual quarrels among generals whom it supports.

Last month, exasperated generals of the Vientiane high command, led by Ouane Rattijoun, Kouprasith Abay and Oudorn Sannanikone, demanded the removal of Brig. Gen. Thao Ma as head of the Laotian air force.

The generals accused Thao Ma of becoming an independent

Three Wrecks Reported by City Police

A series of accidents have been investigated by City Police. Early Thursday at 3rd and Walnut a pickup driven by Charles R. Hawkins of Texarkana and a car driven by Ernie Lee Hopson of Hope collided with minor damage resulting.

At 6th and Main yesterday cars driven by Mrs. W. I. Stroud of Washington and William Miller collided. The Miller car was crossing Main. He was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way by Officer McCulley. There was minor damage to the Stroud vehicle.

A Midwest Dairy truck driven by Dale W. Ivey, Texarkana, collided with an auto driven by Johnny Lee Epperson of Texarkana on East Third late yesterday. Ivey was charged with following too close by Asst. Chief of Police James Rowe. Damage was minor.

Police also reported that a truck driven by Kenneth White of Little Rock knocked down a signal light early this morning. An investigation revealed the light was swinging too low.

warlord at the Savannakhet airbase 300 miles south of here. At their request Premier Souvanna Phouma issued an order transferring Thao Ma to the Vientiane high command as head of operations.

Since he became air chief more than three years ago, Thao Ma, 32, has been effective in helping the war effort against the Communist Viet Cong in South Viet Nam. By Laotian standards, Thao Ma is a top-notch fighter pilot.

The United States provided his fledgling air force a substantial number of T28s, fighter bombers driven by propellers.

Best estimates are that the Laotian air force has at least 50 of these planes which are serviced — or substituted in case of loss — at the nearby Udorn American airbase in Thailand.

Thao Ma personally led missions — almost daily — in bombarding Communist supply routes that lead into South Viet Nam via Laos.

The Vientiane generals complained that Thao Ma, confident of American support, repeatedly refused to execute orders of the high command. Some field commanders even accused Thao Ma of refusing to give air support to their troops when they engaged the Pathet Lao. In other words, the generals charged that Thao Ma behaved according to his whim and not in accordance with their needs.

Afterward I was announced in Vientiane that Thao Ma could remain as air force chief but transfer his headquarters to this administrative capital. This was considered a compromise and as well a reversal of Souvanna's order transferring Thao Ma to the high command operations.

But Thao Ma failed to move to Vientiane. With the support of troops, he seized the Savannakhet airport.

Liquor Ration to Viet Nam Gls Slashed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The liquor ration for American military and civilian personnel in Viet Nam has been cut by more than one-half.

Effective last month, the amount of alcoholic beverages which may be bought in package retail outlets was reduced from six fifths per man per month, with no limit on wines, to three fifths per man including wine.

The Pentagon said the cut-back, ordered by the command in Viet Nam, is intended to curb black market sales and "further reduce pressures on logistical and security systems."

A spokesman supplied figures which showed that with more men in Viet Nam, consumption of alcoholic beverages has increased sharply.

Last year American military men and civilians in the Southeast Asian country consumed 460,706 cases of liquor and wine.

By comparison, sales the first five months almost match the 1965 total — 400,586 cases sold from last January through May.

Miss Woolfolk won in the category for publications edited by a woman. Mrs. Martin's award was for a series of articles in the Arkansas Democrat and Miss Bindursky's was for a future article in the Lepanto News Record.

'Him', Beagle Belonging to LBJ, Is Dead

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's friendly, frisky beagle "Him" is dead.

"Him" had spent a good bit of his three years chasing the squirrels that inhabit the White House grounds. And that's the way he lost his life.

Johnson's daughter, Lynda, burst into a meeting the President was having with some congressmen Wednesday night to tell him about another tragedy in the dog part of the family. "Him" had darted between the front and rear wheels of a White House car on the driveway out back while yapping after a squirrel and was struck and killed.

Johnson told associates "It's a sad night tonight at the White House."

"Him" had the No. 1 dog tag in the capital and was registered as the pet of the Johnsons' younger daughter, Luci. But he really was the President's dog.

Every morning Johnson clapped his hands and brought "Him" running to his side. "Him" was always around at lunch time and always managed to coax a morsel or two from the presidential plate. And sometimes at night he slept on the presidential bed.

Mrs. Johnson was in Lincoln, Neb., on a beautification trip and was notified of the beagle's death by a Secret Service agent.

"That makes you feel like you have been hit in the stomach by a hard rock," she said.

Despite a well-publicized incident when Johnson pulled "Him's" ears with resultant howls from the pup and even louder ones from dog lovers, there was a real, unmistakable affection between the two.

"Him's" death was the second canine tragedy at the White House since the Johnsons have been there. "Him's" sister, "Her," died on Nov. 27, 1964, on an operating table after having swallowed a rock she picked up on the White House lawn.

The White House collie, Blanco, still is around although he never has been a top favorite. And two of "Him's" six puppies are there, too. "Kim" and "Freckles" are about eight months old. Their mother was a Texas beagle.

"Him" will be cremated and buried on the LBJ Ranch — if the President follows the precedent set with "Her."

Data on Class Which Meets Here Saturday

Interesting statistics on the class of 1966 which will hold a reunion here Saturday. Out of the seventy-three graduates, who received their diplomas in June 1946. Thirty-five have remained in our wonderful State of Arkansas, with almost half of these (16) remaining in Hempstead County.

The Neighboring States beckoned to quite a few: Texas 15 and Louisiana 5.

Other States were not so enticing gaining only a small number. Ohio and Florida two each, Connecticut, Kansas California, Mississippi, New Mexico, Tennessee, North Carolina, and Alabama one each.

Three wondered all the way overseas, located in Africa, Korea and Viet Nam.

Only thirteen States are represented by our graduating group. One death has occurred in the entire class.

Thought For The Day

The most glorious exploits do not always furnish the clearest indications of the virtue or vice in men; sometimes a mere expression, a jest, even, gives us their character better than the most famous sieges, the bloodiest battles. — Plutarch.

Bishops to Decree Books to Ban

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican plans to let local Roman Catholic bishops decide what writings members in their areas should not read, but it is going to give them a helping hand with their censorship.

A Vatican announcement Tuesday said the Church plans to issue an information bulletin to guide the bishops. The publication will replace the index of forbidden books which was issued by the Vatican's Congregation of the Holy Office. The index was abolished in February when the Holy Office was renamed the Sacred Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith as part of the program to improve the Church's image in the present-day world.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Network television's news departments, somewhat ironically, find it easier to cover daily a war on the other side of the world than some activities crowded into a few short blocks in downtown Manhattan.

There are more than 1,200 stocks traded on the New York Stock Exchange alone, and the really important news to viewers any day from that place is whether the particular stocks he owned went up or down. It is absolutely impossible to crowd this detailed information into even an hour-long news roundup.

But television can — and did Tuesday night — introduce viewers to a tense, frantic and unexpectedly dramatic place that narrator Harry Reasoner called "The Capital of Capital." The program on CBS called "Wall Street. Where the Money Is" opened with a closeup of $10,000 bills and a sheaf of securities and closed with a shot of a mutual fund executive ordering 10,000 shares of an unidentified stock.

We never got a tip on the market, but we did get a fast-paced tour of the financial community. There was the noisy bustle on the exchange floor that looked like a disturbed hive of bees. There were men buying and selling by hand signals on the American Exchange and men shouting themselves hoarse on the Commodities Exchange. "You might say that every time there is a transaction on the New York Stock Exchange, somebody is right — and somebody is wrong," philosophized a successful young broker.

One broker said his judgment proved correct on an average of seven times out of 10. Another said he tried to be right 80 per cent of the time — to shoot higher or would make him timid. Another suggested that men who made real money in the market tended to run with stocks rising in value and cut their losses quickly.

One of the most interesting sections of the program was a brief documentary of the sale of a $50-million bond issue. It showed four financial syndicates bidding for the issue and it built up like a stage drama as the rivals attempted to cut under each other's offer.

Altogether it was a lively, thoroughly understandable presentation of an off-beat subject. It was produced with wit, intelligence and considerable imagination.

NBC and ABC expect to cover Thursday's news conference on the Surveyor 1 mission, now scheduled for 2 p.m. EDT. More pictures of the lunar surface will be shown and experts will explain what has been learned about the geography and composition of the moon.

CBS will have an hour special, "Two Weeks on the Moon" next Sunday — 6-7 p.m. EDT.

Recommended tonight: "The Undeclared War," NBC, 8-10 EDT, a report on the brushfires and other hostilities since the end of World War II.

Contrary to Public Safety

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Commerce Committee meets again today in closed session to debate legislation calling for federal safety standards for automobiles.
Chairman Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., told newsmen after a three-hour committee session Tuesday that tentative agreement had been reached on a formula for mandatory standards.
Magnuson said the committee is working on a revised version of the legislation proposed by President Johnson. The President's bill asks only that the secretary of commerce be authorized, but not necessarily required, to issue standards.
Thus if the decision for mandatory standards is finally approved, it would go beyond Johnson's request. Magnuson said he hopes the committee will complete action on the measure this week.
premiere that he rose and remained standing until its conclusion.

THE BORN LOSER

By ART SANSON

Americans spend about $50 billion every year on gambling games. In England 48 per cent of the adult population risks its money on gambling, a larger percentage than in the United States, although the money risked does not represent as large a proportion of the national income as it does in the United States. Betting on the horses is the principal form of gambling in the English-speaking countries and in France.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Ultragenorous Play Is Winner

By JACOBY & SON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

South's one diamond response to his partner's opening one club bid is ultra modern. The theory is that you want to give your opponents every possible chance to hang themselves and if you don't bid a spade they may bid the suit themselves. We rather like this modern theory when it works. When it does not, we long for the good old days.

The diamond response results in a deuce of spades opening against the three no-trump contract which would be reached in almost any bidding sequence.

East wins with the ace. He notes that his partner has only four spades. Then he looks at the five card club suit in dummy and decides to try to kill the dummy by leading a heart.

West covers whatever card South plays with his king and right here it is up to South to become ultragenorous and let West have a trick he has no right to drag in.

Once South makes this play he is held to two heart tricks instead of three, but he is sure to bring home dummy's club suit because there is no way for West to knock out the ace of hearts. Four clubs plus two hearts plus two spades plus one diamond represents a total of nine tricks which is all South needs.

If South takes that first heart he will be held to two club tricks only provided East remembers to duck two club leads.

South may make three no-trump anyway. There are all sorts of ways for him to try for an end play but if the defenders handle their cards correctly, there will be no end play and South will go down.

Director of Ballet Likes Prize Fights

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Carlos Ortiz of New York is the world's lightweight boxing champion. Johnny Bizzarro of Erie, Pa., would like to be. And K'ril Tikhonov of Moscow? He's just a boxing fan.

Just a fan, that is, who is also the conductor of the world-renowned Russian Bolshoi ballet. Tikhonov and his troupe showed up at the Civic Arena here, where Ortiz and Bizzarro will fight for the title Monday.

The Russian broke away from the rest of his group for a few minutes to watch Bizzarro spar two rounds with Ray Lewis of Indianapolis and three rounds with Jimmy (Red) Parsons of Pittsburgh.

Speaking through an interpreter, Tikhonov said he is a rabid boxing fan and likes almost all sports.

"We have very good boxing in Moscow," he said. "I have watched it very often in person, on television and in the circus."

The circus? Tikhonov explained that boxing frequently is a circus side-show in Russia.

Reinforcements in Amsterdam

AMSTERDAM, the Netherlands (AP) — Six hundred police reinforcements poured into Amsterdam today after the most serious riot in the Netherlands' largest city in 30 years. With some 1,100 policemen on duty, the city was calm again.

Police used tear gas for the first time in the city's history last night to disperse rioting construction workers protesting the death of a bricklayer in a demonstration on Monday.

Car wrecking, store smashing and some looting was reported after young hooligans joined in the riot.

Police said 63 civilians and 28 policemen were injured and 30 persons were arrested.

Guarded the Place for 26 Years

NEW YORK (AP) — In July 1940, when Fiorello LaGuardia was mayor of New York, Patrolman Joseph T. Prevratil was assigned temporarily as a guard at Gracie Mansion, then being restored as a permanent home for mayors.

Prevratil retired today after 26 years on the police force — still a guard at Gracie Mansion. He stayed at his post through the administrations of LaGuardia, William O'Dwyer, Vincent Impellitteri, Robert F. Wagner and John V. Lindsay.

Today's Sharp Shop

SPRUCE UP: Young homemakers generally have more silver—flatware and serving pieces—than their mothers ever hoped for. They also have fewer service people to keep these items polished to look their best for company or daily use. A new silver care kit now comes with a jar of silver foam for washing and polishing; a tarnish preventative for holloware and a silver duster for touchups of holloware. The kit makes a thoughtful gift for the new bride or the homemaker who has collected silver through the years.

Says Medical Experiments Are Unethical

BOSTON (AP) — A Harvard Medical School professor says unethical experiments are being performed on humans without their consent, and cites examples involving more than 1,000 persons.

Dr. Henry K. Beecher, director of Harvard's anesthesia laboratory at Massachusetts General Hospital and chairman of a faculty committee studying ethics in human experiments, makes the charges in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Journal editors who reviewed the article in the latest issue certified the 22 examples given as accurate and correctly described. They said 28 others he submitted were not included for reason of pace.

"It is evident that in many of the examples presented, the investigators have risked the health or life of their subject," Dr. Beecher wrote.

His examples, he said, are from leading medical schools, university hospitals, private hospitals, governmental military departments (Army, Navy, Air Force), governmental institutes, Veterans Administration hospitals and industry.

It is evident, Dr. Beecher wrote, "that unethical or questionable ethical procedures are not uncommon."

Joan Crosby's TV Notebook

By JOAN CROSBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—He lives in an elegant Manhattan apartment behind a door marked "These Premises Protected By Holmes Detective Service," which is only right for a man who played Sherlock Holmes in 14 films and for seven years on radio.

He is, of course, Basil Rathbone, still very suave, looking a couple of decades younger than his 74 years.

He will be heard, but not seen, on television when ABC-TV telecasts The Baffling

World of ESP on June 16. Rathbone, moving from chair to chair and nervously pulling on cigarettes, classified himself as a more-or-less believer in extrasensory perception (ESP).

"I think I believe more in the unknown than the known," he said, adding that he believes in the Resurrection of Christ. "There are many things you are able to believe when you are able to accept the Resurrection."

Rathbone would like to convince ABC to do a sequel show in which well-known people, "with nothing to gain but a reputation to lose," would tell of psychic phenomena in their lives. He, himself, had an experience he can't explain.

A friend, a man Rathbone and his wife regarded as a "stepfather," was killed before Rathbone's eyes while they were out walking Rathbone's six dogs. The man was hit by a car, tossed into the air and killed instantly.

About two hours later, Rathbone was alone in his study when the telephone rang. A woman, who said she had reached him by telephoning every studio in town for his number because she had to tell him something about the death of a friend, then delivered a message. "Your friend asked me to tell you he is moving very fast and he will not be able to communicate with you again. He also said to tell you there are no dogs where he is."

Rathbone paused as he recalled the moment.

"There was absolutely no way she could have known about the death. Even the next day, there was only a small obituary in the paper. So I think it is unwise to say 'I don't believe.'"

It may be that Ed Ames, who has an excellent baritone voice, is not being wasted in Daniel Boone after all.

He would like to return to the Broadway musical stage, but he wonders how he can get there.

"There is no more music in musicals," he said, here to record his fifth album for RCA Victor.

"Many performers in musicals don't have the performing ability for the musical stage. So now song writers are writing songs with the idea that no one will be able to sing them. They keep turning out flat songs for people without voices," said Ames, once of the singing Ames Brothers.

When chores as Mingo on the popular NBC-TV series permit, Ed takes time for other network appearances as a singer. He has appeared on The Ed Sullivan Show, will probably do a couple of appearances on John Gary's summer series, and there is talk of a Dean Martin guest shot.

"The main problem is to get free. One filming schedule is such that I never know in advance when I will be needed."

He keeps his vocal chords warmed up, however.

Rusk Stresses Strong NATO Outside France

By HARRY KELLS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk stressed today that the United States and other North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations — outside of France — believe the only way to settle the division of Germany and bridge the gulf between East and West is to show plainly our "resolve to keep our defense strong and to remain united."

Rusk aimed his new thrust at the policies of Charles de Gaulle before the Senate's National Security subcommittee as U.S. policymakers evidenced concern over the French president's trip to Moscow next week, believed to be an effort by De Gaulle to work toward home German settlement himself.

Rusk, in making his first public report on the NATO meeting at Brussels last week, said the session "was a critical test of the vitality of NATO. And I believe it is accurate to say that NATO passed this test with confidence."

Caddo District DAR Meets at Texarkana

Caddo District, Daughters of the American Revolution, met June 14 at Texarkana with Mrs. James Williams presiding in the absence of Regent Mrs. Wilford Creason.

First order of business was election of the following officers, Mrs. Francis Abraham, director; Mrs. Paul Ackerman, treasurer and Mrs. D. E. Darrow, secretary.

The Arkadelphia Chapter has extended an invitation to the group to meet with them at next year's conference.

Following luncheon the group took a tour of homes with outstanding antiques, including the homes of Pope Briley, Vasco McCoy, A. C. Atkinson and Trevor Craven.

Mrs. Ernest O'Neal of Hope announced that the Arkansas Legislative Council would meet June 17 at Washington, Ark. and invited the group to attend.

Attending from John C. A. in Chapter of Hope were Mrs. O'Neal, Mrs. J. H. Waddle, Mrs. Wilbur Jones, Mrs. Charles Locke, Mrs. J. H. Battle, Mrs. Arthur Wimmell and Mrs. John Keck.

$297,000 for Mt. Nebo Park

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mount Nebo State Park will get a $297,000 federal grant to help pay for new tourist facilities, Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said Wednesday.

Approval came from the Economic Development Administration, and it was the first of 12 applications submitted by the Arkansas Publicity and Parks Commission for improvements at state parks.

The state will match the federal grant for Mount Nebo.

U.S. Hopes DeGaulle Will Give a Little

AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States apparently hopes to persuade President Charles de Gaulle that France has a stake in allowing NATO bases to remain on her soil, even if most are reduced to a standby basis.

At the same time, Washington officials are anxious that the U.S. Air Force not be barred from flying French skies. Approval now is granted by France on a month-to-month basis.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara hinted this direction in U.S. thinking after announcing Wednesday that he has ordered the remaining 122 U.S. transport and reconnaissance planes and the bulk of American war stocks, some 575,000 tons, shifted out of France.

This was the first major action to comply with De Gaulle's demand that North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces leave France, although NATO leaders already have agreed to move the alliance's military headquarters from Paris to Belgium.

While doing this, McNamara obviously sought to avoid any appearance of a rupture.

The defense secretary noted that De Gaulle has stated "unequivocally," as McNamara put it, that France intends to remain a member of the alliance.

"We welcome that statement," McNamara said. "We will do everything to cooperate with him to carry it out."

Without being specific, McNamara said there are facilities in NATO that are beneficial to France.

"We presume she will continue to wish to use these benefits," he added. And in the next breath, McNamara said the United States "of course" hopes to continue to use French air space.

This may be the tack along which the United States is planning to negotiate with the French on the future of some 30 major bases and installations, including a 500-mile fuel pipeline leading into West Germany.

In other developments relating to the NATO situation

U.S. officials were reported concerned that De Gaulle's plan to seek a basis for French-Soviet understanding on eventual unification of Germany may in some way be directed at reducing U.S. power and influence in Europe. And informed sources in Moscow said East European Communist foreign ministers are working in secret session to set up a common front to present De Gaulle when he arrives in the Soviet capital Monday.

A West German leader said the Soviet army could remain in a unified Germany if such a solution satisfied Moscow's security interests. German reunification "does not depend on the very last Soviet soldier leaving German soil," said Rainer Barzel, majority leader in the West German Bundestag and deputy chairman of Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's Christian Democratic Union.

DINANT, Belgium (AP) — Retired U. S. Gen. J. Lawton (Lightening Joe) Collins has received a hero's welcome in the picturesque Belgian city of Dinant, a World War II battleground in 1944-45.

Collins was in command of the U. S. Army 7th Corps when Dinant was threatened by the Battle of the Bulge. He was officially welcomed Tuesday by Maurice Roulin, burgomaster of Dinant.

Military Building in France Halts

PARIS (AP) — The U. S. Defense Department expects to save about $7.25 million by stopping work on military construction projects now in progress in France, spokesmen said today.

American military construction in France has been curtailed since President Charles de Gaulle gave U.S. forces an eviction notice in March.

Conference

DETROIT (AP) — Cobo Hall becomes the center today for the 50th quadrennial world conference of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

The conference will run through June 26 with an estimated 10,000 expected to attend, including 1,400 representing 189 foreign countries.

Mansfield Proposal for a Settlement

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Mike Mansfield proposed today a face-to-face meeting between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Red China's Foreign Minister Chen Yi to discuss a peaceful settlement of the Viet Nam war.

The Senate Democratic leader said in a speech prepared for Yeshiva University graduates that the war threatens to become in the end a U.S.-Chinese conflict, just as in Korea.

"What is needed most, at this time and in the light of that danger, is an initiative for a direct contact between the Peking government and our own government on the problem of peace in Viet Nam and Southeast Asia," Mansfield said.

"This problem is of such transcendent importance," he added, "that it is a fit question for face-to-face discussion between China and the United States at the highest practicable level."

"Our secretary of state, Dean Rusk, confronted the Chinese foreign minister, Chen Yi, across the conference table at Geneva in 1961-62. It may be that a similar meeting now would be useful in this critical situation."

He said such a conference could be confined to the two nations, or "it could include the nations of the Southeast Asian mainland since they all lie in the swath of the war's spreading devastation."

Mansfield said he does not regard the membership nor the mechanics of the conference as important.

"History will not be gentle with those who pursue the shadow and evade the substance of peace," he said. "It will not view with sympathy those who stand too much on ceremony or who insist too much on face as the price of coming to grips with its profound problems."

He said he is not optimistic that any conference with the Chinese at this point would produce much more than a cease-fire. But he said the "first faltering steps" must be taken toward peace.

Mansfield, who has criticized some aspects of President Johnson's Viet Nam policy, said efforts to end the war "by waging more war" have failed. He conceded that efforts to end it "by waging less war" have not succeeded.

He rejected the idea that the fighting can be ended more quickly "by more and better placed bombings" in North Viet Nam.

Pryor Says Newspaper Chain Biased

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — David Pryor of Camden predicted Wednesday night that the Palmer Media Group newspapers of South Arkansas would give unlimited publicity to one of his opponents in the 4th District Democratic congressional primary.

Pryor said voters could expect to see a flood of news about Richard S. Arnold, a Texarkana attorney and son-in-law of W. E. Hussian of Camden, president of the Palmer group.

He asked his supporters not to become discouraged or surprised "when the time comes for the Palmer communication empire, with their unlimited supply of money, to unleash this deluge of publicity on behalf of Mrs. Hussian's son-in-law."

Pryor said the Palmer group had at its disposal "a fantastic sum of money to carry out the most extravagant political campaign ever witnessed in state politics."

The Palmer group has two newspapers in both Texarkana and El Dorado, one in Camden and one in Magnolia. Two Hot Springs newspapers, also in the Palmer group, circulate in part of the 4th District.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Circuit Judge Elsjane Roy approved Wednesday a city council plan to shift about 1,500 voters from Jacksonville's Ward III to Ward I to equalize voting strength.

U.S. Combat Dead Climbs in Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — American combat dead climbed to the second highest level of the year last week, reflecting in part the cost of the victory over a North Vietnamese regiment in the central Highlands.

The U. S. military command said 142 Americans were killed, 741 wounded and one missing or captured last week compared with 109 killed, 636 wounded and 13 missing in the week of May 29-June 4.

A total of 146 Americans died in action in the week of May 15-21.

The latest toll brought the number of U. S. servicemen reported killed by enemy fire since Jan. 1 to 1,956 and to 3,804 since Jan. 1, 1961.

The unofficial count of Americans wounded for the year climbed to 12,213.

The allies reported 1,240 Communists killed last week, an increase of 338, and 166 captured, an increase of 46.

This compared with a total of 299 allied troops reported killed.

The South Vietnamese government said 151 of its troops were killed and 30 missing last week compared with 121 killed and 23 missing in the previous seven days. The government does not report wounded.

Australian, South Korean and New Zealand forces reported a total of six battle deaths and 14 wounded, compared with 14 dead and 18 wounded the week before.

Faubus Reduces Prison Terms

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus reduced Wednesday the prison terms of two convicts, Claude Richard Hughes and C. J. Lincoln. Faubus was acting on a recommendation from the state Pardon and Parole Board.

Hughes' 10-year sentence on a robbery conviction in Garland Circuit Court in 1963 was reduced to seven years; and Lincoln's three-year sentence on conviction of burglary and grand larceny charges in Sebastian Circuit Court in October, 1965, was reduced to 18 months.

Jan Gaines, recent winner of the "Miss Hope" contest, and Susan Forster, first runner-up, are attending Mr. Lynn's Modeling School in Shreveport as part of their prize in the competition.

If the Blood Bank Program is to be continued in Hempstead County, a good turn-out of donors is needed when the Bloodmobile comes to Hope on Monday, June 20 from 2 until 8 p.m. at the Youth Center.

Since the inception of the program in Hempstead County in March 1964, 450 pints of blood have been donated while 800 pints (approximately) have been used.

Some 68 pints were used by Hempstead citizens as their need arose while outside the county, simply because we are part of this program.

We have 14,000 people in the county of donor age, but to date only 250 have donated blood.

The people of Hempstead County are asked to correct this situation and, thus, keep Hempstead in the Blood Bank.

You may need blood some day and wish it were available.

Monks Are Met by 500 Elite Troops

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
SAIGON (AP) — Gunfire punctuated the government's campaign today to regain control of Hue. Buddhist demonstrators burned an American automobile in Saigon. Two U.S. servicemen were threatened, but both escaped unharmed.

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky pushed his Buddhist foes farther into a corner by sending 500 of his elite paratroop to reinforce government riot police in Hue, 400 miles north of Saigon, and halting a 9 p.m. curfew on the capital. The government appeared confident of crushing the anti-government, anti-American rebellion, now in its fourth month.

The paratroopers fired on disident infantrymen of the 1st Vietnamese Division who tried to stage a march in Hue with Buddhist banners. The marchers fled after a heavy burst of fire. One disident was reported killed and at least three wounded.

Soldiers at the walled citadel of 1st Division headquarters opened fire with rifles and automatic weapons when five Western newsmen later approached the gates. The newsmen fled with bullets whistling about them.

Apparently confident of crushing the Buddhist rebellion, the junta moved firmly ahead against its opponent.

A tory of U. S. Marine battlefield valor unfolded on a hillside 325 miles northeast of Saigon where 30 U.S. Marines held off 300 Viet Cong for five hours during the night.

When the Leathernecks ran out of ammunition, they fought on with bayonets and finally rocks until Marine helicopters, planes and reinforcements helped drive the Communists off. A U.S. spokesman said all but two of the Marines were killed or wounded, but the platoon killed 32 of the attackers.

U.S. jets continued heavy attack on North Viet Nam, flying 66 missions during which they dodged nine Soviet-made surface-to-air missiles. Two planes were lost to conventional groundfire, bringing the number of American planes shot down over the Communist north to 265. One of the pilots was rescued by helicopter.

Candidates Going to Press Meet

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — All but one candidate for governor has confirmed that he will attend the Arkansas Press Association convention here Saturday, the association said Wednesday.

Only Gus McMillan, who faces Winthrop Rockefeller in the Republican primary, has not made a confirmation.

The eight Democratic candidates and Rockefeller will face questions from the editors and publishers attending the convention. Which gets under way tonight with a meeting of the APA board.

Poor Reception for U. S. Film

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain (AP) — Both the feature U.S. color film and the black and white short got a poor reception Monday night at the San Sebastian International Film Festival.

Critics said the 135-minute-long "Cast a Giant Shadow" was "one more war feature with not much technical value."

The short was "On Fighting Witches." Most viewers didn't understand the meaning of the film.

Critics called Britain's "I Was Happy Here" the best feature at the festival so far.

Teaching Nun to Dress Normal

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — A Roman Catholic nun will wear lay clothing next fall when she starts teaching at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks.

Bishop Leo F. Dworschak of Fargo, N. D., gave special permission to Sister Ann Patrick Ware to wear lay clothing because of a North Dakota law which prohibits members of religious orders from wearing distinctive dress when employed by the state.

Candles Help the Mentally Retarded

By Aileen Snoddy
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — As success stories go, the ability of 400 boys and girls to produce and sell 150,000 candles in a year is a mere drip in the economic mold.

Compare their output in 12 candlemaking workshops scattered strategically throughout the United States with the 9,305,561 passenger cars that rolled off Detroit assembly lines last year.

Aileen Pale though the comparison is, it is similar to the iceberg pattern of disability the youngsters who made the candles carry for life.

The candlemakers all are mentally retarded.

And according to Dr. Patrick J. Doyle, dean of the College of Internal Medicine, Georgetown University, a major portion of the mentally retarded in this country are below the water line (like an iceberg) of discovery or of rehabilitative help.

Doyle currently is a medical consultant to the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation and this is tied in many ways to the problems of ferreting out all the mentally retarded and helping them lead useful, productive lives.

As a consultant to the foundation Dr. Doyle sat on the edge of his comfortable chair in the Hotel Carlyle, a favorite watering spot of the Kennedys, to discuss the mentally retarded.

"The hardest thing I had to do as a pediatrician for eight years," he said, "was to tell a couple their child was mentally retarded. The mother usually accepted the problem. I had the most trouble with the father. He felt it a slur on his masculinity."

With continued diagnosis of many diseases such as TB meningitis, control of RH factor incompatibility, and better prenatal care of the low-income, high-risk groups he predicts a cutback in the number of mentally retarded by one-third in the next 10 to 15 years. While help comes to the infant, though, he cites an increase in mental retardation in adults. The culprit: brain damage from auto and other accidents.

Although Dr. Doyle says there are no truly accurate statistics of mentally retarded, the estimate is 8 million, with 3 million of these employable. There is a crying need, he believes, to put these people to work. And they need to work in a business that can compete with private enterprise, not rely upon hit-and-miss contracts from other manufacturers.

Steps in making John F. Kennedy Flame of Hope Candles help test and train these three mentally retarded boys to work at full-time jobs. They are in the Kennedy Job Training Center, Palos Park, Ill., one of 12 sheltered workshops involved in a candle-making project. The candles sell for $2.98 a pair.

The current candle project financed by a $148,800 grant from the Vocational Rehabilitation Administration is a major step. Sitting in on the up-dating session on the mentally retarded was Marvin Blank of Hyannis Port, Mass. He is responsible for teaching the candlemaking process. Enthusiastically, he points out the 14 processes in candle-making, plus packaging and shipping, prove a good guide to supervisors in placing the boys and girls in other jobs. The candles are being sold by some 300 stores throughout the country.

Vocational testing, training and placing millions of mentally retarded in permanent jobs is uppermost in the minds of Doyle and Blank. If each could earn even $1,000 a year, it would mean billions to the economy. This, Dr. Doyle points out, is peanuts when you consider that it costs $150,000 to maintain a mentally retarded ward of any community for a lifetime.

"Let us be realistic," he says. "Projects such as the candles show we can put the mentally retarded to work successfully."

"We have to overcome medieval concepts. Many still regard a mentally retarded child or adult as merely capable of violence, murder, sex assaults."

A step in the right direction is early diagnosis in a clinic equipped to identify and handle problems of this group.

Unfortunately, Dr. Doyle says, parents who suspect they have a "slow" or mentally retarded child shop around for the diagnosis "they can accept." This is unfair to the child and to the community. Often the child has hearing and sight defects, too. If not discovered early, these add to the frustrations of trying to cope.

The tragedy is that the gross cases, such as Mongoloids, get all the attention, he says. Help needs to go, he continued, to those slowed by environment, too. Take a child with an IQ of 70 out of a Baltimore slum, he says, put him in an enriched environment and the IQ can go up to 100, if there is no brain damage.

"Why should such a child become an economic burden to a community? He can be trained to work. Our project shows that."

Shifts Hug the Figure

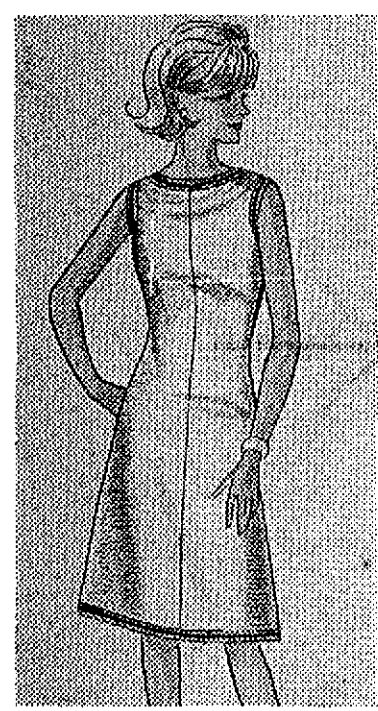

by Mary Brooks Picken
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Some designers are making the shift to hug the figure a little more than it used to. In the sketch you will see how the front seam helps to slenderize the figure. It also gives an A-line look.

Any medium-weight fabric in a flattering spring color is a good choice for this style. Bonded jerseys and crepes, linens, blends, all are appropriate. Shop for gaily colorful prints or solids in a fabric to delight and flatter you.

Sometimes hems look clumsy, especially if you have your dress fashionably short. A hem edge trim such as we show is the answer to this problem.

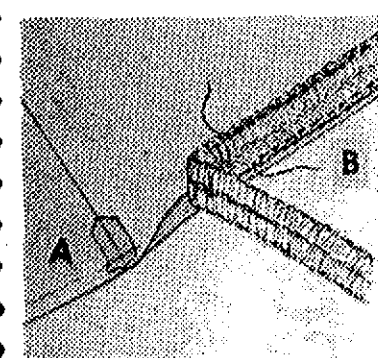

If you are fortunate enough to find a bargain remnant in a fabric you like, try cutting your dress without a hem. Turn the hem edge to the right side when fitting, then apply a trimming over the raw edge.

Trim the hem turn evenly all the way around. Open each side seam one-fourth inch less than the width of your trimming.

Clip the seam A at this point. Bring the clipped seam to the right side. Stitch precisely in line with the body seams. Press open.

Pin the trim over the turned edge (as shown) easing it to place without any obvious fullness or tightness.

Stitch the trim to place as at B. Make sure you catch the turned edge, easing the trim to place.

A way to get a shorter skirt look is to turn the dress edge 1 1/4-1 1/2 inches to the right side. Then place the trim 1-1 1/4 inches above the lower edge. If you wish, you can use as many as three rows of trimming on the lower edge, two at the neck, one at each armhole.

Overlap the ends of the trimming so that the joining is as invisible as you can make it. Avoid bulk by trimming away any surplus. Whip the lapped edges; make them secure without any stitches showing.

Press the trimmings trim side down and over a turkish towel.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Most men can play king of the fashion hill when they're on the beach. Manufacturers have always indulged in all kinds of crazy beach togs, so there's no good reason why a sun-fun addict can't splurge on style.

Assuming the swimmer doesn't show a built-in inner tube around his middle, he can choose trunks from a vast assortment of colors and fabrics and not look especially conspicuous.

Swimwear fashions have generally originated on the West Coast the season before they become big news on the eastern seaboard. The folks in the middle of the country, therefore, are never quite sure whether they are following last year's western look or this year's eastern.

Surfer shorts with the wax pocket and laced front are still popular in the East but Californians this year are opting for "jams," the light, boldly printed cotton trunks which supposedly have been adapted from pajama bottoms.

Jams are very loose-fitting, even sloppy, but they provide dedicated surfers with the easy comfort they say they need.

Trunks and jackets fashioned from "grapefruit cloth" are another innovation.

The gimmick here is that the cloth, specially treated, when scrawled on with grapefruit juice (citric acid) or a "magic fluid" tube that comes with the garment, will change color.

For those men who feel a 42-inch girth is becoming, there isn't a form-flattering swim trunk made. These men should investigate the hiding qualities of a beach jacket or robe or spend their beach hours submerged.

ABC Sportscaster Tom Harmon, a fashion consultant for Jaymar-Ruby, Inc., says Russian men aren't allowed to have a fashion.

After several weeks traveling in the Soviet Union, Harmon finds that many Russians "will walk up to Americans on the street and try to buy sports coats, suit, shirts—even the slacks the tourist is wearing. But they hesitate to spend a ruble on the kind of merchandise found in government-owned department stores."

Drabness, Harmon reports, marks the garb of the Russian. Color is as foreign as style and variety in clothes. Normal wear for the average Russian includes bell-bottomed slacks with flared and floppy cuffs, sports shirts in summer and rough work shirts in winter.

The more privileged citizens wear rough-cut suits ranging from one- to seven-button models. Flys still button, lapels and ties are as wide as America's 1920 styles (though they're coming back here).

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Is the baby sitter obsolete during summer months? The answer is a definite "no." In fact, the business generally picks up during the warmer months because parents often have more invitations to cook-outs and other early evening parties. Another big incentive for parents to step out more is the availability of good baby sitters who are not as tied down with high school or college activities.

No matter the season, though, there are certain dos and don'ts a baby sitter and a parent should observe for the comfort and safety of all involved.

A couple who hires a baby sitter under 18 to care for small children should not apologize to the youth for setting up certain rules. If they care for their children, the couple won't be pushed around by certain teen-age types who "lay down the law" and want to play the game their way. On the other hand, a couple should not take advantage of an earnest baby sitter.

Few thinking couples will subject an infant or even children up to 10 to a teen-age boy or girl who feels the night's baby-sitting job is a green light to all kinds of fun and games.

Parents, too, must follow a certain code. They should come home at the hour set and see the teen-ager safely home.

Some guides to follow in selecting a baby sitter and a house in which a baby sitter

Fruited Kabobs Make a Star Out Of Ham Slice

Four kinds of color-splashed fruits arranged around a center cut ham slice will make this easy-fix cut a center of attention. It's so pretty you needn't hesitate serving it to guests.

Here's an entree that can be served on short notice, points out noted meat authority, Reba Staggs. An inch thick ham slice will take a total broiling time of 15 to 20 minutes.

If a homemaker is pressed for time, skewers can be threaded with the fruits while the first side of the ham slice broils. Keep broiling temperature moderate so the meat will keep its attractive appearance.

- Sunburst Ham Slice
- 1 smoked ham slice, cut 1/2- to 1-inch thick
 - 6 crabapples, drained
 - 6 pieces banana, cut 1-inch thick
 - 12 chunks pineapple, drained
 - 6 cooked prunes, drained and pitted
 - 6 4 to 5-inch wooden skewers

Set regulator for broiling. Place meat on broiler rack. Insert broiler pan and rack so the top of the meat is 2 to 3 inches from the heat and broil 8 to 10 minutes on first side. Make fruit kabobs by threading a crabapple, banana piece, pineapple and prune on wooden skewer. When one side of the meat is browned, turn. Place fruit kabobs around meat and continue broiling 6 to 8 minutes or until meat is done. 4 to 6 servings.

Veal Cutlets Can Be Just Peachy With This Sauce

The sauce is used on veal cutlets, made from the round or leg, explains meat authority Reba Staggs. When each round steak is cut into three or four servings, they become known as cutlets.

Veal Cutlets With Peach Sauce

- 2 veal round steaks, cut 1/2 inch thick
- 1 teaspoon curry powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 3 tablespoons flour

- 3 tablespoons lard or drippings
- 1 can (16 ounces) sliced peaches
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons raisins
- 1/2 cup water
- 2 teaspoons cornstarch

Cut each veal steak into 3 servings or cutlets. Combine curry powder, salt, pepper and flour. Pound seasoned flour into cutlets. Brown cutlets in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Drain peaches, reserving juice. Add enough water to the peach juice to make 1 cup of liquid. Add 1 cup liquid, lemon juice and raisins to veal cutlets. Cover tightly and cook slowly 45 minutes or until veal is tender. Remove meat to platter. Combine 1/2 cup water and cornstarch and add to liquid in pan. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened and clear. Add peach slices and heat through. Serve peach sauce over meat. 6 servings.

Ham, Tropical Style

PINEAPPLE AND HAM is a natural delight.

by Gaynor Maddox
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When the man of your house gets that charcoal look in his eyes, hint (but of course never suggest) that he just might like to try something a bit exotic. Then lay this recipe on the table and quickly whisk out of the room.

The result—you and he and your guests will thoroughly enjoy these Polynesian pineapple 'n' ham packages grill over hot coals. Blend ½

POLYNESIAN PINEAPPLE 'N' HAM PACKAGES

(Serves 6)

- 1 center cut ham slice (1½ inches thick)
- 1 (1-pound 4½ ounce) can pineapple slices
- ½ cup rum or ¼ cup orange juice and 1 tablespoon lemon juice)
- 1 tablespoon dry mustard
- ½ teaspoon powdered ginger
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 2 (1-pound) cans yams
- Trim fat from ham. Brown ham lightly on both sides on grill over hot coals. Blend ½ cup syrup drained from pineapple with rum, mustard, ginger, brown sugar and butter. Heat in small pan on grill. Place ham slice in center of large piece of heavy foil. Foil should be large enough to enclose ham, pineapple and yams with a little free space for steam to gather. Fold up edges and pour in warm rum syrup. Seal package with drug-store fold. Grill about 8 inches above coals, turning every 15 minutes, for 45 minutes. Open packet; arrange drained pineapple slices and yams around and over ham. Spoon sauce over all to moisten. Close foil loosely and continue grilling 10 minutes longer; open packet and grill another 5 minutes until heated through.

"Hobson's Choice"
The expression "Hobson's choice" to mean "this or nothing" arose from the refusal of the London carrier, Thomas Hobson, when letting his horses on hire, to allow any animal to leave the stable out of its turn.

War Demands Cut Airline Services

NEW YORK (AP) — The demands of the Viet Nam war are forcing some of the nation's major airlines to curtail passenger service just as they enter their peak summer season.

Accelerated military needs have caused delays in delivery of new commercial jet craft, leaving some airline companies which had planned to use the new jets without sufficient equipment.

Eastern Air Lines said Tuesday it had to temporarily cancel about 5 per cent of all flights in its 102-city system a week ago because of delays in initial delivery of 68 new jets.

A check of a half-dozen major airlines showed at least one other carrier is curtailing some new service and another may have to follow suit.

A fourth, Pan American Airways, canceled almost two dozen transatlantic flights this summer to divert aircraft to military service in Southeast Asia.

A spokesman for United Airlines said new service planned between New York and the area from Washington, D.C. to Tennessee had been indefinitely delayed. It was to begin Oct. 1 but has been pushed back until after Jan. 1.

Trans World Airlines may night that S-T-R-E-T-C-H-E-D into the wee hours. And they all had a ball at the happening.

Officials of United and TWA reported the Boeing Co. and Douglas Aircraft Corp., two of the nation's major jet makers, have repeatedly delayed delivery of new planes, blaming heavy military commitments and shortage of parts.

"They keep pushing the delivery dates back," the United official said. "They said Aug. 1 and now they say Aug. 18."

The TWA official said the carrier has been told by Douglas the delay would be at least several weeks.

The Boutique

Mrs. Clark Gable (left), Mrs. Alfred Bloomingdale (center) and Diana Lynn (right) model fashions by famous designers done in Actionwear stretch fabric for the "Broadway Comes to Hollywood" charity benefit held in Beverly Hills.

LOS ANGELES—(NEA)—It was really a night that S-T-R-E-T-C-H-E-D into the wee hours. And they all had a ball at the happening.

Everyone made the scene at the Crystal Ballroom of the Beverly Hills Hotel for "Broadway Comes to Hollywood," a fashion spectacular and dinner-dance given for the benefit of Mrs. Alfred Bloomingdale's favorite charity, The Colleagues.

This is an organization dedicated to the rehabilitation of young girls who need a helping hand and, when necessary, it also provides psychiatric treatment for them. The event was underwritten by Stretchlon for Actionwear. So the fashions modeled, from swimsuits to bridal gown were—you guessed it—in stretch fabrics.

California socialites don't walk any 10 paces behind their New York sisters when it comes to charity benefits. No, indeed. They even import some of the New York crowd to add to the glitter.

Mrs. Bloomingdale (her husband's grandfather founded the department store of the same name) has been classified as the best-dressed woman in the world and was elected to the California Fashion Hall of Fame. Yet she was delighted to add a bit of New York glamor to her gala.

"I was thrilled when Maggi Newhouse (McNellis to television viewers) agreed to commentate the show with Kay (Mrs. Clark) Gable." And Maggi brought some of her friends along to do some of the modeling. While we're name-dropping, these included Mrs. Jacob Javits, Mrs. Thomas Auchincloss and Mrs. Denniston L. Slater.

"We are in the throes of forming a New York and, eventually, a national committee of The Colleagues," Betsy Bloomingdale said. "And these friends of Maggi are the nucleus of our New York group."

Not to be outdone, the California models included such well-known beauties as Mrs. Kirk Douglas, Dana Wynter, Mrs. Vincent Minnelli, Diana Lynn and, of course, Kay Gable.

And if the model list isn't illustrious enough, the designers should certainly turn the trick. Jean Louis, Estevez, Galanos, Tassell, Bud Kilpatrick, Georgia Bullock and many others did the costumes for the event.

The fashions were superb and it was a revelation to see what can be done with "stretch." There were among the designs shown an ankle-length Cheong-San in red, black and white, a draped, strapless evening gown and, the highlight of the show, a beautiful wedding gown made entirely of stretch fabric.

The designers made a definite fashion point. Stretch, the most comfortable of fabrics, is going places far beyond the sportswear category. If this event was a harbinger of things to come, you'll find stretch in ballrooms, at dinner parties and eventually sweeping down the church aisle at fashionable weddings.

The top hits of Broadway were used as backgrounds for the "Broadway Comes to Hollywood" fashion show. And every kind of fashion was represented in stretch fabrics.

"Sweet Charity," introduced gowns for charity balls across the country. "Any Wednesday," launched costumes for daytime occasions—matinees and luncheons. "Royal Hunt of The Sun," brought on the bikinis; "Inadmissible Evidence," the nude look; "Cactus Flower," and "Barefoot in the Park," sportswear; "Wait Until Dark," cocktail fashions; "Generation," mother and daughter designs; "The Impossible Years," teen-age clothes, and "Superman," togs of the future. The designers stretched across the complete fashion gamut.

Stuff Bermuda Onions With Cottage Cheese

COTTAGE CHEESE fills these Bermuda onions.

by Gaynor Maddox
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Who's for cottage cheese? Lots of us. Almost everyone is a few (or many) pounds over desirable weight.

But despite its low-calorie, high-protein value, cottage cheese can become monotonous unless brightened with imagination. Try it in new combinations and with new seasonings. Give it zip, eye-appeal and a change of pace—and go right on using it.

Try it as a stuffing for large sweet Bermuda onions, spiked with green pepper, Parmesan cheese and paprika. It's a fun way of weight-control — especially for lunch.

COTTAGE CHEESE STUFFED ONIONS

(Serves 6)
6 Bermuda onions
1½ cups (¾ lb.) cottage cheese

- ¼ cup chopped green pepper
- 1 egg, well-beaten
- ¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
- Salt and paprika
- ¼ cup cornflake crumbs
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine

Peel onions. Cook in water to cover until onions are firm but tender. Drain and cool. With a sharp knife cut out the centers of the onion leaving a shell about ½-inch thick. Chop enough of the onion centers to make 1½ cups. Stir in cottage cheese, green pepper, egg and Parmesan cheese. Add salt and paprika to taste. Spoon mixture into onion shells. Put onions into a shallow pan. Sprinkle tops with cornflake crumbs. Dot tops with pieces of butter. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) for 25 to 30 minutes or until onions are hot and lightly browned.

More and More Americans Going Abroad

By LEWIS GULICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — A record number of Americans plan to travel abroad this year, despite the drain on the U.S. dollar.

This is shown by passport statistics slated for publication soon. Passport issues are an advance indicator of foreign travel plans.

The figures also indicate the number of overseas trips by U.S. officials is climbing somewhat faster than that for American tourists. Much of the increased official travel is to Southeast Asia.

The White House has made some effort to curb foreign travel by officials and to encourage U.S. citizens to see America first. However, the President's daughter, Lynda Johnson, is among many intending a trip abroad. She is scheduled to leave for Europe shortly.

Spending by Americans overseas is one of the headaches for U.S. authorities worried about the gold outflow. In 1965 a record 2.5 million citizens went abroad, not counting those who just crossed the border to Canada or Mexico.

In dollar spending terms the 1965 U.S. travel deficit amounted to $1.8 billion. This year's total may top $2 billion.

The Passport Office statistics cover issuances of new passports and renewal of old ones during the first quarter of this year.

In January through March, 364,701 passports were issued or renewed. This is 14.3 per cent above the 316,932 passports for the same period of 1965.

Official passports issued in January-March of this year were included in this figure. They totaled 57,251, 17.6 per cent over the like 1965 period.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

Youth Asked For It!
This column is for young people their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. It welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brushoff.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Bottel, US! this newspaper.

Too Many Kooks
Dear Helen: You probably got blasted by would-be brides and mamas of brides for your lukewarm stand on big weddings. (Note from H.: That I did!)

After trying to plan a lovely wedding, and ending up almost divorced before I was married, I will now agree with you.

Girls, don't ever get involved in a big "do," unless, as Helen says, you have relatives and close friends who are totally compatible and won't get their feelings hurt.

Grandma got mad because I wouldn't wear her wedding dress, a family tradition, even though it's all frayed and yellow and too small for me. Great Aunt Martha, who doesn't like Grandma, insisted that she'd buy me a dress, and her side of the family said they would not come if I didn't accept (which I didn't).

His and my folks couldn't agree on a guest list, ended up not speaking. There was a big hassle over bridesmaids and ushers because of not enough jobs to fit all the people wanting them.

Before long I felt so pulled and hauled by all the kooks on both sides of the family I just said to heck wit h the whole mess, and one day my fiancé and I took a drive and came back married. — We are — Living Happily Ever After.

Dear LHEA: Congratulations! You're one couple who didn't let too many kooks spoil the troth! — H.

Dear Helen: I am engaged to a wonderful fellow who I love but right now I wonder if we'll ever make it to the altar.

In trying to choose the wedding party, my fiancé feels it his job alone to select the ushers.

I always thought my two brothers ages 28 and 25, would be in the wedding party, but my fiancé wants only my younger brother. He says he has other friends closer to him than my older brother. I suggested adding another usher and he said if he did it would be his cousin.

I am very close to both my brothers. I feel that having one left out would hurt him deeply.

My fiancé can't see my reasoning and I can't see his. What's yours? — F. C. H.

Dear F.: According to Post, your fiancé is right: The bride chooses her attendants, the bridegroom his, with the exception of ONE curtesy selection each from the other's family.

However, knowing how much it means to his girl, a thoughtful man would add another usher (in addition to his cousin) even if boutonniere, gifts, and what-not take a few dollars away from his honeymoon money. It pays dividends to keep the bride happy on her wedding day. — H.

P. S. For another solution, read letter signed "Living Happily Ever After."

Old Wives Tale

Dear Helen: We are expecting our first baby, after having been married a year. My husband's grandmother says she knows it will be girl because she held a metal plumbline (string with a weight on it) over my bulge and it swung in a circle. If it had swung back and forth, she says it would mean a boy. Is this true?

Also, someone else told me if the girl was the more dominant of the two she'd have boys and if the man were the stronger and more forceful one of the couple they'd have girls, so if I want a boy baby, I should be submissive and let my husband boss me. Again, right or wrong? — Ruth Dea Ruth: Wrong on both of the counts. The plumbline myth persists because the law of averages makes it right 50 percent of the time.

The second theory is unreliable unprovable and unauthenticated, but it's an excellent way to keep a wife in line, provided she wants a boy. — H.

Have Larceny in Their Hearts

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — There are some persons loose in town this summer with larceny in their hearts and comfort — and money — on their minds.

Officials of an air-conditioning company told police thieves took 19 air conditioners valued at $2,600 from their place of business.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I think it's time to hang up my hat," said Fredric March, chewing on the tag end of a cigar.

The two-time Academy winner — "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," 1932; "The Best Years of Our Lives," 1946 — was sitting next to the entrance of the stage where "Hombre" was being filmed. He had just finished a scene with Paul Newman and Martin Balsam and was waiting for the next one. "What am I doing here?" he ruminated. "I've got four grandchildren coming from their home in Italy to our house in Connecticut; my daughter is married to an Italian-American who lives in Florence. My son is getting married this summer. "Here I am making a picture, feeling as tired as I have ever been, when I should be in the East with my family. It doesn't make sense." He had already spent a gruelling 13 weeks in the Arizona and Nevada deserts and mountains. It was no ordinary location; one company worker, a veteran of Western films, reported he has never experienced a tougher trip for a movie. "The weather was murderous," reported March, "so hot that you couldn't sleep at night. In one location, it was 53 miles over mountain roads to reach the shooting at the top of the peak. The place was on a ledge with a road so narrow that a Jeep would have to back down it to descend." The actor said that he survived the location only through the aid and support of his wife and often costar, Florence Elbridge. During their stay in Las Vegas they celebrated their 39th wedding anniversary. Despite her ministrations, March came to the conclusion that he should end his long, distinguished career. "Look — I'm 68; I'll be 69 in August," he remarked. "I think I've done my stint. Now I aim to do the things I like to do: spend some time with my family, and travel. "Fortunately, I'm in a position where I don't have to work. I made money in the years when you could still keep it. And having been a banker, I took good care of what I earned."

Change in Usage
Although celery was known to the ancient Greeks and Romans, it was used only as a flavoring for food and for medicinal purposes until the 17th century. Its use as food here was first recorded in France in 1623, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Says U.S. Flag Was Beautiful

DETROIT (AP) — An American flag on a makeshift pole in Viet Nam "was the most beautiful piece of cloth I have ever seen," says Marine Lance Cpl. Dennis Fritz. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Fritz of Detroit, released on Flag Day a letter from Dennis, in which he described the flag-raising and added: "I don't like being here or fighting, but I will always be here, or there will always be someone like me here. Where is the right for us to fly our flag?"

BARBS

BY WALTER C. PARKES

Auto manufacturers are building more safety into their cars. They can fix everything except that loose nut in the driver's seat.

The late, late movies are what the television folk feed in to separate the commercials.

Maturity is when you are as concerned about the other guy as you are about yourself.

Times change. Nowadays it's rare to encounter anyone who is afraid to fly.

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Medical Societies Aid In Locating Specialists

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

I still get many letters asking me to recommend a surgeon who does a specific type of operation or some other type of specialist in various parts of the country. Since this column is not a proper place for answers to that type of question, I would suggest that you get that kind of information from your county medical society. Although they are not allowed to furnish you with a single name, they will give you two or three to choose from and something about the background of each.

Q—My son has traumatic encephalopathy. Is this a form of brain damage? Will it get worse as the years go by?

A—This term means headache following a head injury. Although the headaches may persist for months or years, there is no permanent brain damage. The condition improves rather than worsens with time.

Q—When my fifth child was born I was given Pitocin to induce labor. Following this I had a violent headache that lasted a month. All the usual remedies were of no avail. Neosynephrine nose drops, however, helped me. What caused the headache and why did the nose drops help it?

A — Oxytocin (Pitocin) causes water retention in some persons. If this process involves the brain, the excessive pressure inside the cranium would cause headache. Since phenylephrine (Neosynephrine) is a decongestant, it shrinks the blood vessels in the nasal passages, including the sinuses. This could relieve some of the pressure in the cranium. On the other hand, perhaps you had sinus headaches.

Q—What is histamine? Would daily injections help headaches?

A—Histamine is a chemical poison that is released from cells that are damaged by an allergic reaction. It causes dilation of the blood vessels and large amounts acting on the brain increase the pressure in the cranium. This causes a type of headache called histamine headache.

In an effort to desensitize victims of this disease, a series of small injections of histamine are sometimes given. Although good results are obtained in some victims, this treatment is not universally successful. A drug combination (Midrin), available only on a doctor's prescription, is often helpful for this type of headache.

Q—I have been taking Prolixin for two months to relax colon spasms and counteract tension. Are there any side effects? Does it act as a laxative?

A—Fluphenazine (Prolixin) is a tranquilizer. If while taking it you have drowsiness, blurred vision or dryness of the mouth, your doctor will probably want to reduce the dosage. Since the drug is given to relax your colon it will not act as a laxative, but the nervous tension for which it is given is in itself a powerful laxative.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.
